November 2018

Several major roadwork projects to be complete after the first of the year

Drivers and pedestrians will have some new structures available for use after the first of the year. The new Comanche Street bridge is expected to open to motorists in late January. The new bridge will include two lanes with a center turning lane and a shared use path for pedestrians. Construction on the new Stillman Pedestrian bridge which spans IH37 is also expected to open to pedestrians by early 2019. Additionally, construction of the Staples Street bridge, Nueces Bay Boulevard bridge and Port Avenue bridge are on-going and expected to open by mid-year in 2019. FDLLC hosts 'Breakfast with the Builder' events for residents and business owners

Project management met with residents from North Beach and the Hillcrest, Washington/ Coles area for 'Breakfast with the Builder' held in late November. The events, held at restaurants in both areas, provided an opportunity for residents to speak one-on-one with project developers. A brief update in the areas of construction, workforce and traffic impacts was provided to attendees. For the very latest information on project updates and events, visit the HBP website at www.harborbridgeproject.com and click on the "Updates" icon to sign-up to receive project updates straight to your inbox.

FDLLC Engineers answer questions from North Beach residents and business owners.

Deputy Project Manager, John Palmer provides an overall update to breakfast guests.
